- Sussex County

New Jersey

- Camden County

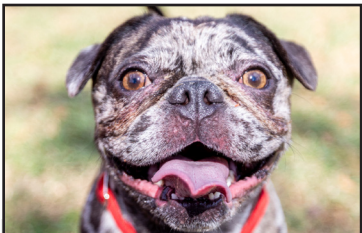

Washington, DC

- District of Columbia

The BVSPCA was instrumental in creating the first no-kill state in the United States (Delaware) and currently acts as a mentor for high risk shelters across the country, thanks to our progressive approach to sheltering and veterinary care. BVSPCA was recently recognized for reaching No-Kill status in Central PA at the Humane Society of Harrisburg Area, now fully part of the BVSPCA organization. We also expanded these No-Kill initiatives into New Jersey and Washington, D.C. where the BVSPCA serves as the District's provider for animal care and control services.

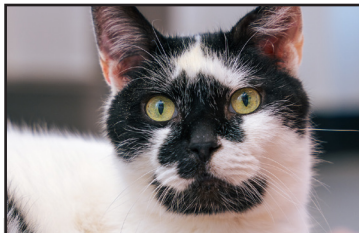

Join our pack today and be part of the positive change happening for the more than 25,000 animals depending on us each year. Whether it's helping local victims of cruelty and neglect, supporting emergency relief efforts, lifesaving transports, humane education, or community-based resources, your partnership will be connected to a powerful mission.
